Glen Johnson, owner of KanOkla Fur Company, is a leading Fur Buyer in the Kansas/Oklahoma region and across the United States. Fur harvesters receive top prices for wild fur such as bobcats, coyotes, coons, beavers, foxes, mink, and other furbearers.

KanOkla Fur Company, established in 1974 as a fur trader, is located on the Kansas/Oklahoma border in Hunnewell, Kansas. I have a Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas Fur Buyers License and purchase many type of wild fur pelts, skins, and hides in various forms, such as raw, skinned, and stretched and dried. During the fur season the Hunnewell location, known as the fur shed, is open nearly every day for fur buying and handling by appointment. Please call for appointment before coming because KanOkla Fur Company is also a traveling fur buyer that makes periodic visits to Alva, Anthony, Altoona, and Woodward. See the Fur Routes for each location dates and times.

Hunters, trappers, and other fur buyers have found that I am a reliable fur trader. If you enjoy trapping, coyote hunting, coon hunting, or bobcat hunting plan to bring your pelts to KanOkla Fur Company and receive top dollar and the best fur prices. Proper fur handling is very important to all fur buyers and it can result in a better price. Fur handling starts at the trap site--furbearers trapped in the water should be rinsed clean of any mud or vegetation.

Trapping supplies are available at the Hunnewell, Kansas location. Cage traps in various sizes are commonly on hand; foothold traps, lures, assorted scents, and other supplies are available upon request. Trappers and animal damage control people frequently purchase the bobcat size cage trap with live bait holder. The skunk cage trap is also commonly purchased.
